From the foregoing statements, it will appear that the finances of the State are in a sound, healthful and flourishing condition; and that the system of revenue established by law for the payment of the interest, and the ultimate extinction of the principal of the public debt, is now realizing the most sanguine expectations of those by whom it was devised. The public credit rests upon an impregnable basis from which it cannot be shaken so long as the present means of the Treasury are left unimpaired. The experience of each successive year developes, more and more, the irresistible evidence of the rapid absorption of the public debt, and confirms the belief that the day is not remote when the obligations of the State will be wholly discharged, and the property of her citizens liberated from the burden of taxation. The aggregate income of the Treasury for the fiscal year ended on the first day of December, 1852, has exceeded that of the year immediately preceding it by the sum of $48,686.25, while, with the exception of some few of the sources of revenue, which will be adverted to, no greater increase or diminution has occurred than is usually experienced in the operations of the Treasury in any given number of years.

Prominent among the exceptions above referred to, is the income from the Direct Tax, which, when compared with the receipts of the previous year, on the same account, will be found to have increased $72,559 01. A reference to Statement No. 1 will show that the receipts from the Direct Tax for the past year, exclusive of interest on arrears, were $472,135.65; of which $204,757.21 was for the tax accrued for that year, and $267,378.44, for former years; exhibiting a gain in the receipts for revenue accrued in the year, of $18,083.62, as compared with payments on the same account during the fiscal year ended on the first of December, 1851. Statement F. will show, in detail, the balance of the direct tax of 1852, in the hands of collectors, to be, as nearly as can be estimated, $267,676.05, while the balance due for former years, (see Statement E.) amounts to $368,635.41, with $73,683.08 of interest, calculated to the first day of December last; making a sum total of direct tax of $709,994.54, independently of and auxiliary to the levy for 1853. For the recovery of the arrears of direct tax, accrued before the year 1851, legal proceedings were, at different times, ordered, prior to the present organization of the Treasury Department; and since that period, pursuant to Chapter 56 of the last session of the Legislature, $87,995.52, not before then put in suit, has been placed in the hands of the different State's Attorneys for collection. It may reasonably be presumed that the whole of these arrears, or so much of them as will ever be available, will be received within the next two years; after which, little else can be relied on in aid of the accruing revenue of any one year, other than the balance remaining unpaid of the levy for the year immediately preceding it; a circumstance entitled to great consideration in any future revision of the revenue system.

Statement No. 2 will show the amount of revenue received during the past year for Stamp Duties, to have been $59,720.95; of which sum $36,207.21 was paid direct from the Stamp Office, and $23,513.74 from the Clerks of the Circuit Courts and the Clerk of the Superior Court of Baltimore. It is gratifying, in this connection, to be able to state, that, the income from this source is larger by the sum of $6,323.16, than that received for the preceding year; and that it exceeds, by $6,262.63, the greatest amount which has reached the Treasury from this branch of revenue, during any former year, since the passage of the Stamp law.

Statement No. 2 will, also, be found to exhibit a detailed account of the various heads of revenue with the several amounts thereof passing into the Treasury through the hands of the Clerks of the Circuit Courts of the Counties, and the Clerks of the Superior Court and Court of Common Pleas of Baltimore. This revenue is derivable mainly from the sale of licenses to traders and others, together with several additional branches, particularly set forth in tabular form; and while it is a subject of congratulation to discover a slight aggregate increase over and above the receipts of the former year, it will be considered singular that the payments made by the Clerks of the Circuit Courts, have largely augmented, and that those made by the Clerks of Baltimore, including the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Baltimore County, have proportionably diminished. The following statement will illustrate the whole matter:

Total receipts from Clerks for the year ended 1st December, 1852.....		$184,101 90
Paid by Clerks of Superior Court and Court of Common Pleas of Baltimore, and Circuit Court of Baltimore County.....	$101,277 19
Paid by late Clerk of Baltimore County for Revenue accrued in the year.....	3,124 42	104,401 61
Paid by Clerks of Circuit Courts, except Baltimore co.		$79,700 29
Total receipts from Clerks of County Courts for the year ended 1st December, 1851.....	181,461 53
Paid by Clerks of Baltimore County and City Court..	114,639 03	66,822 50
Increase of payments made by Clerks of Circuit Courts		$12,877 79

During the year ended on the first day of December, 1851, there was received into the Treasury from the Clerk of the late Baltimore County Court and the Clerk of the late City Court, $114,639.03, and during the last fiscal year there was paid $101,277.19. Showing a falling off in the payments of the last year of $13,361.84. From that sum, however, it is proper to deduct $3,124.42 revenue accrued and paid in the past year by the former Clerks, which will reduce the deficiency to $10,237.42.

Under Article IV, Section xv, of the Constitution, the Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas of Baltimore, is required to issue, within the city, all marriage and other licenses authorised by law, whereby the Clerk of the Superior Court becomes the recipient of only such part of the public revenue as arises from Stamp Duties; Tax on Plaintiffs within the jurisdiction of the Superior Court; Tax on Civil Commissions, and Tax on Commissions of Trustees and Receivers. The Clerk of the Circuit Court of Baltimore County has accounted for and paid over a larger amount of revenue than has been received from any other Circuit Court Clerk in the State, excepting the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Frederick County; and there can be no doubt, but that the full contribution of Baltimore County has been received. The apparent discrepancy in the receipts from the Clerk of the Superior Court, is, perhaps, susceptible of a satisfactory solution.

One cause of deficiency, applicable to this office, and common to all the Baltimore Clerks, will be found in the fact, that the annual tax upon the office, has not been paid; for the reason that the Legislature, having failed to apportion the tax paid by the old officers among the new Clerks, there was no means of enforcing its payment. And, in this connection, the attention of the General Assembly is respectfully invited to the subject.

Again, the payments from this office, on account of the tax on Civil Commissions, have exceeded those of the former year, $726.60; while the receipts from the tax on Stamps and Trustees' Commissions, show no greater variation than is often experienced from year to year; and in the case of the latter tax, is particularly incident to the re-organization of an office.

Whatever deficiency is found to exist in the revenue receivable by the Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, may, to some extent, be accounted for by the fact, that he is not the recipient of Stamp Duties; that, for the reason above stated, the tax upon his office has not been paid, and that the increase of the tax on licenses to non-residents, by the act of the last session, may have considerably diminished the sale of licenses to that class of traders; and it is not doubted but that he can afford a ready explanation of the causes that have produced a falling off in other departments of the State's revenue under his charge. This subject has not been presented to the consideration of the Legislature with a view to cast a shade of suspicion upon the integrity or fidelity of any officer, but for the purpose of again pressing upon its attention the necessity of adopting a system which will put it in the power of the Treasury to know precisely the amount and description of revenue for which each Clerk should account in his semi-annual returns. As the system is now organized, except in the case of marriage licenses and stamp duties, it is impossible to open an account upon the Treasury books against any one of this class of officers until his semi-annual returns come to hand; and when they are received there is no means of testing their correctness, except only in so far as relates to the accuracy of the arithmetical calculations in the accounts themselves. Under these circumstances, I consider it to be my duty to recommend the adoption of a system of graduated licenses to be furnished in blank from this department; and for all the necessary details I respectfully refer to the report of the Comptroller, with the bill accompanying it, of the date of the 22nd of April last, made in obedience to an order of the House of Delegates, of the 6th of the same month. (See Document M of the last Session.)

The total amount of revenue passing through the hands of Registers of Wills, arising from tax on their offices, tax on Commissions of Executors and Administrators, and tax on Collateral Inheritances, received into the Treasury during the past fiscal year was $49,117.35. (See Statement No. 3.) Of this amount $24,480.08 was paid by the Registers of Wills of the City and County of Baltimore, and $24,637.27 by the Registers in the different Counties. For the year preceding the last fiscal year, there was paid into the Treasury by the Registers of Wills of the State $61,744.05, of which $41,198.72 was received from the Register of Wills of Baltimore County and City, and $20,545.33 from the Registers in the Counties; showing a gain in the receipts, from the County Registers, of $4,091.94, and a deficiency of $16,718.64, chargeable to the offices in Baltimore City and County. The Baltimore County office appears to have contributed its full proportion; and it is not doubted, that, the falling off in the revenue from the City office can be reasonably explained; for, besides the non-payment of the tax upon the office, for the reason already assigned in the case of the City Clerks, the fact, that the receipts from that office during the year ended on the first of December, 1851, were unusually large and greatly disproportioned to those of any former year, leads to the conclusion that the result is ascribable to some extraordinary cause.

The checks, designed to protect the public revenue in the hands of Registers of Wills, have proven in practice to be altogether inadequate to that purpose; and it is respectfully suggested, that instead of the duplicate receipt, required to be given by Registers of Wills to Executors and Administrators for the Tax on their Commissions and for Collateral Inheritance, to be forwarded by them to the Treasury, a provision but little regarded, the law should be so amended as to make it the duty of the Judges of the Orphans' Courts, upon the allowance by them of Commissions to Executors and Administrators, and upon the ascertainment of the proportion due the State for Tax upon Collateral Inheritances, to certify the same to the Comptroller's Office, with the amount thereof. The law imposing a Tax on the Commissions of Trustees and Receivers, should also be so amended as to require the Auditors, upon a statement of accounts in equity proceedings, to certify to the Comptroller the proportion of the Commissions allowed each Trustee and Receiver, due to the State.

The several suggestions above made, if adopted by the Legislature, would furnish the Treasury with a complete check upon the Clerks and Registers of Wills throughout the State.

For the payments made into the Treasury by the several Internal Improvement Companies, reference is made to Statement No. 16. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, with its accustomed punctuality, has promptly met all its engagements with the State. The State's proportion of one-fifth of the receipts from passengers on the Washington Branch Road, during the last fiscal year, was $59,826 69, exceeding by $2,602.96, the revenue from the same source received in the preceding year. Considerable embarrassment has been encountered at the Treasury since the sale of the Sterling bonds of the State, held by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, and issued pursuant to Chapter 386 of 1833, arising from the difficulty of estimating, with any degree of certainty, in view of Legislative appropriations, the quarterly interest accruing on the Currency debt of the State. Pursuant to Chapter 41 of 1847, these bonds are liable to be converted from Sterling to Currency; and when so converted are entitled to interest, quarterly, at the Treasury. The conversions thus far amount to £59,500, of which £57,500 belong to the Sinking Fund; and the extent to which conversions may take place for the future cannot be foreseen. This portion of the Public Debt has been, heretofore, considered and treated as, virtually, the debt of the Railroad Company,—the interest accruing upon it, having been regularly remitted to London by the Company itself, without any intervention on the part, either of the Treasury or of the public authorities of the State. When the character of the bonds is changed by commutation from Sterling to Currency, the interest, as before remarked, becomes payable at the Treasury; as, however, under the Constitution, no money can be disbursed without an appropriation of law, and as it is impossible to anticipate the amount likely to be converted in the course of a year, the Treasury may be, as it has already been to some extent, unable to meet the entire interest, which, by this means, accrues quarterly on the Currency debt. Nor can the difficulty be removed by advances for the purpose direct from the Railroad Company to the Treasury; for, besides the impossibility of timely knowledge, either on the part of the Company or the Treasury, of the proportions of interest due here and in London, any remittance to meet the Domestic interest would sink into the Treasury, from which it could not be drawn in the absence of an appropriation by law. The attention of the General Assembly is respectfully invited to this subject, with the suggestion, that embarrassments growing out of the state of things above mentioned, may be, for the future, effectually removed, either by a law requiring the entire interest upon these bonds to be paid directly to the Treasury, or a modification of the Act which authorises their conversion.

Statement No. 16 will also show the amount received from the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad Company, for interest on that portion of the Public Debt contracted for its benefit; and although, within the fiscal year, but $60,000 was paid by that Company, $24,692.04 less than the receipts of the preceding year, it is proper to state that an additional payment of $25,000 was made in the past month; leaving still a deficiency of $27,922.72 on account of the accruing interest of the year.

The receipts from the Susquehanna and Tide Water Canal Companies, for interest, amounted to $66,600, less than was paid by these Companies in the fiscal year ended on the 1st December, 1851, by $900.

The report of "The Funds," presents in detail the several items composing the "School Fund," consisting of Bank Bonus, Dividends on Bank Stock standing to the credit of the several Counties, and Surplus Revenue, together with the disbursements thereof for the education of the indigent blind, and among the Counties according to their several proportions; from which it will appear that the total receipts for the year amounted to $84,858.86—the total disbursements to $64,331.37, and leaving a balance at the close of the year, to the credit of that fund of $20,527.49. Statement L sets forth the amount of that portion of the School Fund which consists of Bank Stock and cash belonging to the several Counties. The report of "The Funds" also shows the receipts and disbursements on account of the Sinking Fund during the past year, including the increment of the Fund itself and the amount of general revenues of the Treasury passed to its credit and expended for its benefit. For the character and the several amounts of the Stocks standing to the credit of the Sinking Fund, and those Stocks purchased for it, or redeemed and carried to its credit, together with the rate at which they were respectively purchased, reference is made to Statement M. An examiation of that Statement, aided by a calculation based upon it, will show a gain in the aggregate amount of the Stock purchased, or redeemed, as compared with its par value, of $6,207.73. On the first day of December, 1851, the total amount of Stocks held by the Sinking Fund was $2,229,617.92. On the first day of December, 1852, the Stock standing to the credit of that fund, as a matter of account, was $2,728,075.41, showing an increase in the last year of $498,457.49. Chapter 305 of the last session of the General Assembly, authorised the over-due Stocks of the State redeemed out of the surplus moneys in the Treasury, to be carried to the credit of the Sinking Fund. Under the provisions of the law just referred to, there remained outstanding at the close of the last fiscal year, of stock called in for redemption, $42,227.44. This Stock ceases to bear interest, in the hands of its present holders, from the day advertised for its redemption, and will, when surrendered, enure, as of that day, principal and interest, for the benefit of the Sinking Fund. It must, therefore, be considered and treated as an addition to that Fund, within the last fiscal year, whereby the total amount of the Sinking Fund will reach the sum of $2,770,302.85, and its augmentation within the space of a single year, will be swelled to $540,684.93. To that sum may be added $30,000, the University Stock redeemed and cancelled pursuant to Chapter 119, of 1852—a virtual payment of $570,684.96 of the debt of the State, and indicating with unerring certainty the rapidity with which the public obligations can and will be discharged, should the Treasury be left in possession of the means afforded it by the existing revenue system.

The Constitution, Article VI, Section iii, defining the duties of the Treasurer, provides that, “upon warrants issued by the Comptroller, he shall make arrangements for the payment of the interest of the public debt, and for the purchase thereof, on account of the Sinking Fund;” and it is but just to state, that the unprecedented result of the last year’s operations of the Sinking Fund, is eminently due to the intelligence, activity and zeal of that officer.

Pursuant to Chapter 337, of January session 1852, entitled, “An Act to provide for the General Valuation and Assessment of Property in this State,” which, in consequence of disagreements between the Senate and House of Delegates, was not finally enacted into a law until the thirty-first of May, the day on which the General Assembly adjourned its session, the undersigned proceeded with the utmost dispatch to prepare, and cause to be printed, the forms of assessment and copies of the law required to be furnished to the County Commissioners, the Assessors, and the Appeal-Tax Court of Baltimore; and, notwithstanding the very limited time for executing the work, he was enabled to place in the mail, the various packages containing them, under cover, to the Clerks of the Circuit Courts of the Counties, and the Register of the City of Baltimore, in season to reach their destination by the fifteenth day of June; the period fixed for the assembling of the Assessors to take into consideration the law itself and the instructions of the Comptroller. The Assessors, it is understood, have proceeded to execute the duty required of them; but, from information derived from several of the Counties and the City of Baltimore, in many instances, they have been unable to complete the valuation of the property in their respective districts, by the first of December, the day fixed in the law for the completion thereof. To such as applied to this Department for information, as to their right or duty to continue the work, instructions were given to proceed with the assessment until the whole should be completed, and the returns of the valuation could be prepared and delivered to the County Commissioners and the Appeal Tax Court of Baltimore, as prescribed in the 21st Section of the Act. The 30th Section of the Act makes it the duty of the Clerk of the County Commissioners, in each County, and the Appeal Tax Court of Baltimore, on or before the first day of March next, to return to the Comptroller a summary account from the Assessors' returns, as corrected by the Commissioners and Appeal Tax Court, of all the property liable to taxation, with the value thereof; and the Comptroller is thereupon, by the 38th Section, directed "to prepare a condensed statement, exhibiting under appropriate heads, the amount of such valuation in each of said Counties and said City, and the aggregate amount of property assessed, and report the same to the General Assembly at its next session." Although it is understood, that there will be a very large increase in the value of the taxable property of the State, justifying, perhaps, a considerable reduction in the present rate of the direct tax, yet as the assessment itself is not yet completed, and is liable to be reduced by the action of the Appeal Tax Courts, when returned to them, there is no such information in the possession of this Department as will enable it to present to the Legislature, at this time, any reliable project for the modification of the revenue system upon the basis of the new assessment. When the returns are received, and an opportunity is afforded the Department to digest and prepare them for the use of the General Assembly, the undersigned, in obedience to the Constitutional provision, which enjoins upon him the duty to "digest and prepare plans for the improvement and management of the revenue," will offer such views upon the subject as may appear to him to comport with the credit and honor of the State, and the true interests of the people.

Article VII, Section 5 of the Constitution, provides that, "from and after the first day of April, eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, no Lottery scheme shall be drawn for any purpose whatever; nor shall any Lottery ticket be sold in this State; and it shall be the duty of the several Commissioners elected under this Constitution, to make such contract, or contracts, as will extinguish all existing Lottery grants before the said first day of April, eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, and also secure to the State a clear yearly revenue equal to the average amount derived by the State from the system for the last five years; but no such contract, or contracts, shall be valid until approved by the Treasurer and Comptroller." Chapter 113, Section 3, of January session, 1852, authorised the Commissioner of Lotteries, for the purpose of making a contract, or contracts, as required by the above quoted article, to "accept a surrender of any existing contract." The existing contract for drawing the Maryland Consolidated Lotteries was held by Francis Morris and Richard France, survivors of George Cook, and took effect from the first day of December, 1851, to continue for three years. On the twenty-seventh day of March last, the Commissioner of Lotteries entered into an agreement with Francis Morris and Richard France for the surrender to the State, from and after the first day of April then next, of the existing contract. On the twelfth day of April thereafter, the Lottery Commissioner, on behalf of the State, contracted with Richard France for the drawing of the Maryland Consolidated Lotteries for the period of seven years from the first day of that month; the contractor binding himself to pay to the Commissioner such proportions of moneys annually, as would fully extinguish the existing grants, and all costs and charges incident thereto, at the time limited in the Constitution therefor; and to the State the annual net sum of $51,000 in quarterly instalments. The average net annual amount derived by the State from the Lottery system, for the five years designated in the Constitution, and required to be secured by the new contract, was $46,157.04, making a gain in the net annual receipts from the Lottery system of $4 842.96. The contract, with the bonds executed to secure its performance, was duly approved by the Comptroller and Treasurer, and the new system is now in successful operation. In the agreement for the surrender of the then existing contract, provision was made for an apportionment to the first day of April, of the several sums therein stipulated, to be paid annually to the State. That contract, among other things, guaranteed the payment of $21,000 annually for licenses issued for the sale of Lottery tickets. The proportion of that sum, from the thirtieth of November 1851 to the first of April 1852, was ascertained and fixed at $7,000, and as the contractors had, on the first of December 1851, advanced and paid the entire sum of $21,000, accruing for the year ended on the first of December 1852, it was further stipulated that the sum of $14,000, the difference between the amount apportioned and paid, should be refunded in the shape of a credit on account of the payments to be made under the new contract. This arrangement, in the absence of Legislative authority, the undersigned did not feel himself at liberty to recognise, and he therefore required the instalments falling due quarterly, under the new contract, to be paid in cash without abatement. As, however, the apportionment was fair and equitable, he respectfully recommends the passage of a law authorising the sum of $14,000 thus overpaid by Francis Morris and Richard France, to be refunded to them.

The several laws regulating sales by auction; relating to the collection and payment of fines, penalties and forfeitures; to agents of Foreign Corporations; to the tax on Capital Stock of Corporations, and to the payment of dividends on Bank Stock owned by the State, all require revision and amendment; and the undersigned will be ready, upon a call of either branch of the General Assembly, to prepare a detail of the changes needed, with the reasons therefor.

At the last session a change was recommended in the period at which the fiscal year of the Treasury now closes. Subsequent experience has served to confirm the opinion as to the necessity of such a measure; and I respectfully recommend the passage of a law terminating the fiscal year on the thirtieth day of September.

Under the impression that additional clerical force would be requisite in order to conduct the business of the Comptroller's, office, authority was asked at the last session to employ an assistant Clerk. The request was not granted, and the undersigned, finding it impossible to execute the revenue laws of the State with the aid of a single Clerk, was obliged to procure an assistant. He respectfully assures the Legislature that such a step was absolutely necessary, and he asks that the Clerk, so employed, may be paid for his services, and authority given to continue him in the office.

PHILIP F. THOMAS,
Comptroller.

He has since made it, amounting to $1,636 98, and paid it; and also the above balance, except $200, for tax on his office due 1st November, 1852.

†Neither Mr. Garey, nor Mr. Jamar, has made any return due 1st November 1852, nor has Mr. Sappington rendered any account since he left office.

Many of the stamp accounts of the late clerks remain unadjusted, for the reason that discrepancies exist in the amounts with which they have charged themselves, and the accounts as they stand on the books of the Treasury; and as most of these accounts have remained open from the beginning, the statements have been attended with a great deal of labor; and the insufficiency of the clerical force in the Department, has prevented me from giving only a partial attention to their final adjustment.
